Research Note-taking Template

Reference One
Subject of Notes
Citation Information (title, author, publication date, date of access, URL)
Notes (paraphrase, summarize, or use a direct quotation to note important information—avoid copying and pasting huge blocks of text)
Connect (record your ideas and reactions to the information, predict what may happen next, explain what you already know about the information)

Reference Two
Subject of Notes
Citation Information (title, author, publication date, date of access, URL)
Notes (paraphrase, summarize, or use a direct quotation to note important information—avoid copying and pasting huge blocks of text)
Connect (record your ideas and reactions to the information, predict what may happen next, explain what you already know about the information)

Reference Three
Subject of Notes
Citation Information (title, author, publication date, date of access, URL)
Notes (paraphrase, summarize, or use a direct quotation to note important information—avoid copying and pasting huge blocks of text)
Connect (record your ideas and reactions to the information, predict what may happen next, explain what you already know about the information)

Summary